Remote Cook/Medic Skills Training Program

PT Hospitality Services has identified a need for a skills training program targeted to prepare Aboriginal Peoples to fill service positions in remote work camps in mining companies, forestry and reforestation, and hydro development sites across northern Canada. In partnership with Oshki-Pimache-O-Win Education and Training Institute, PT Hospitality Services and Liaison College will deliver the Remote Cook/Medics skills training program. Liaison College is the leading and largest trainer of cooks and chefs in Ontario.

The training site will be at Eagle's Earth Centre at Constance Lake First Nation, 40 minutes west of Hearst, Ontario. The facility is set up to duplicate a "Remote Work Camp" to allow students to fully appreciate the nature and challenges of working in remote locations for extended periods of time.

Course Description and Curriculum

The objective is to give the students a firm knowledge of the skills necessary to provide culinary and first aid services in a safe work environment.

The program is comprised of 576 hours of both classroom study and practical applications. The students will be on-site 24 hours a day for two six week terms with a two week break in between. The course schedule will mimic the work schedule of an actual camp to familiarize students with employer expectation in northern operations. The skills learned can be used in all facets of the Hospitality Industry, Service or Institutional sectors.
